

Enhance the value of your research data

Digital Object Identifier

Assign DOI names to your research data, posters, papers or even unpublished material stored in MPG repositories. Use persistent identifiers to make your scientific output citable by your peers or to link your article to appropriate data. Improve the traceability of your published material and track its scientific impact. DOI names also foster reusability of your work, ensure transparency and make it easier to verify research results.

Our new MPDL DOI service supports Max Planck researchers with registering DOI names. Max Planck research groups can apply the DOI assignment to their local repository.
